Pastor's Letter

ELCA World Hunger's Global Farm Challenge

“Ending hunger isn’t just about food. It’s about access, it’s about justice, it’s about caring for creation and each other. It’s about hope for the world we want to live in. Ending hunger means recognizing the ways God is at work in farming communities and the ways God is calling all of us, together, to be part of the solution.”

Living in Lancaster County we are surrounded by farms and each day see and hopefully are reminded of the importance of farming for the benefit of our lives and the lives of our neighbors. Farming is not just a means that keeps us alive, it is a livelihood for so many folks with whom we share our daily lives not only next door but around the world as well.

“The world produces more than enough food for every person, but the number of people experiencing hunger is growing. Farmers see the beauty of new life and the hope of new harvests. But many farmers also bear witness to the deep inequities that scar our food systems and leave communities vulnerable to hunger and poverty. The very people whose hard work and ingenuity provide the world’s food all too often struggle to feed themselves and their families.”

Recently, you should have read in an edition of The Messenger about the important challenge that ELCA World Hunger is calling us as God’s people to faithfully accept. Through our participation in this program, we can make a difference in the lives of farmers, their families, and their communities by changing lives, while eradicating once and for all the sin of hunger in our world. I know this task sounds huge, and yes, it is. No doubt, hunger is a huge, world-wide problem, that exists in our communities as well; yet it is a problem that can be reversed, not just temporarily but forever. This is a fact! Such a reversal requires the faithful and ongoing efforts from folks like you and me and a commitment rooted in the truth by which we live our lives that nothing is impossible with Jesus Christ. It is through our Christ-centered efforts on behalf of our neighbor—next door and across the world—that we place a face on God's life-giving activity in the world to which Jesus calls us and commands us to carry out in his name.

I strongly encourage you to take time to explore the ELCA World Hunger website, especially the information regarding this Global Farm Challenge (<https://www.elca.org/GlobalFarmChallenge>), and join me in helping our neighbors, once and for all, eradicate hunger in their lives and in the lives of others. And, through our efforts, help remove from our world so many of the problems that are rooted in hunger and poverty: violence, war, crime, lack of education, and many others. If you are interested in this ongoing effort to make a difference and be a part of the solution, let me know, so we can begin changing lives, sooner rather than later.

Faithfully,

Pastor Mark
